Application for Senior Data Analyst

Dear Hiring Team,

I am applying for the Senior Data Analyst role, and the part of the posting about turning category data into decisions is exactly the work I have spent five years doing.

Your posting asks for SQL and Power BI at scale. At my current employer I built the dashboard suite 180 store managers open every morning, and the SQL models behind it took our weekly reporting pack from fourteen hours of manual work to a twenty-minute refresh. The pricing analysis I ran on 2,400 SKUs lifted gross margin 1.8 points in the home category.

What draws me to Suryodaya specifically is the move into own-label, where pricing and stock decisions get harder and better analysis matters more. That is the problem I would most like to work on next.

I would welcome the chance to talk it through.

Yours sincerely,

Ananya Iyer
